DOINGS OF THE COMMITTEES

Appointed to Entertain Visitors

On Saturday. Affair to be a Great Success.

At Saturday's session of the General Committee appointed to look after the matter of entertaining irrigation Congress delegates, Chairman Lorenzo Hansen, Hon. Joseph Howell, Pres. W. J. Kerr and Jos. Jensen were present and attended to several little matters of importance.

Pres. Linford asked that arrangements for visiting the B. Y. C. be made, and this was agreed to, if time will permit.

The Wellsville Band had tendered its services for the occasion and of course this was accepted.

Hon. Joseph Howell reported that the Finance Committee was out actively canvassing for the necessary wherewithal to pay expenses, and felt that sufficient funds would be secured.

As head of the A. C. of U. the appropriations for which are sometimes cut pretty severely, Pres. Kerr has learned how to make a little money go a long way, so at this meeting he suggested that purchases by any member of any committee be made by requisition previously approved by the chairman of his committee.

Pres. Kerr was authorized to purchase souvenir cards for the visitors on the 19th, and provide a register for all who expect to come. This register is to be used at Ogden so as to ascertain who and how many will visit Logan on the above date.

It was the unanimous consent that a special invitation be extended our U. S. Senators and State officials.

Secretary Bullen was empowered to select the Marshal of the Day, aids, messengers, etc.

Dr. John A. Widsaer was appointed chairman of a special committee with right to select aids to receive the guests at the Agricultural college.

MONDAY'S MEETING:

At 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, the Committee on Decoration, with Pres. Linford as chairman, met at committee headquarters and decided on a definite line of action, and if their plans are carried out as intended the city will certainly present a pleasing appearance next Saturday.

A committee consisting of Messrs. M. J. Ballard, W. J. Robinson, Fred Cates, and B. G. Thatcher were appointed to stir up the business men and citizens generally in regard to decoration. It is the desire that the citizens all over the city get out all their bunting and flags and display them conspicuously. The business men will do this as a matter of pride—they are always liberal in this respect, and the result really hinges on the actions of private citizens in the residence portion of the city.

A committee to look after the matter of having all ditches cleaned, and filled with water on the 19th, was also appointed. Messrs. Geo. Dunbar and E. T. Hyde were selected as the men who could do this part of the work best. These gentlemen should meet with the hearty co-operation of everyone concerned in the matter. These visitors are people who come to learn about irrigation and how can they learn much about it up here if the ditches are filled up, overgrown with weeds or devoid of water. The little streams over the city are really beautiful, and they, too, should be made to appear at their best.

It was decided to ask for $100 out of the general fund with which to decorate in a public way. It has been deemed fitting that a certain number of streamers bearing appropriate sentiments be stretched across the streets over which the visitors will pass, and the $100 is to be used for this and such bunting and flags as is deemed necessary. Messrs. H. E. Hatch, B. F. Riter, C. M. Harris, Jos. Odell, Arthur Bateson, Zeph Thomas, and Robert Murdock were appointed to look after this matter.

During the afternoon, the Transportation Committee also reported, and at that time a sufficient number of vehicles to care for 400 people had been secured.

Hyde Park will furnish 10 vehicles; Lewiston 10; Hyrum 21; Benson 3; Mendon 6; Providence 6; Smithfield 8; Wellsville 8; Logan First ward 7; Second 13; Third 9; Fourth 10; Fifth 18; and other places are yet to be heard from.

It will be noticed that Hyrum comes up handsomely with rigs but this is accounted for when it is mentioned that I. C. Thoreson was looking after transportation over there. Thoreson is the proper stuff when he becomes interested, and by-the-way he is usually interested in any public demonstration. Prof. L. A. Merrill deserves a medal also, he having secured 18 carriages from the Fifth ward. However, the transportation committee as a whole is to be congratulated on the effort put forth, and the citizens deserve praise for their liberality.

MONDAY EVENING

The General Committee, consisting of Hon. Jos. Howell, Jos. Morrell, W. J. Kerr, J. H. Linford and Jos. Jensen met at headquarters and discussed the situation.

Chairman Jensen of the Luncheon Committee reported that none of the caterers in Logan could handle the business, and that it would probably be necessary to go away from this city to find the necessary man. The banquet at the A. C. of U. will be an enormous affair and there is little need of Logan caterers being prepared for such a thing. However, the matter will be arranged satisfactorily, the guests not having to go away hungry.

A. G. Barber and D. R. Roberts, chairman and secretary of the Cache delegation to the Congress were associated with Pres. Kerr in the matter of securing souvenirs, register, etc.

Chairman Linford reported that $250 had already been subscribed, and that the county officials while favorable, personally, they could not under the law, donate anything.

Chairman Linford's request for $100 for public decoration was deferred. Pres. Kerr stated that students would take care of all teams and have them watered and fed during the banquet.

This winds up the business done by the committees and there will be no other meeting until tonight at 8 o'clock when it is confidently expected that final and definite arrangements will have been completed.

Smithfield.

J. J. Plowman, Sr., is very low. He was taken sick Friday and has been unable to speak, being unconscious ever since. He is very old and there is no hope for his recovery.

Mr. James Hadfield was appointed Justice of the peace by the City council, the office being made vacant by the death of G. Y. Smith.

The merchants have met and agreed not to give any credit after Oct. 1st. This will be a great benefit to them and their customers too.

Miss Euphemia Griffiths, accompanied her cousin, Luella Wellser, as far as Ogden on her journey home to Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gutke have gone to Shelley, Idaho, with the idea of buying a farm, if the country pleases them.

A baby girl was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fisher, also a baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cragan.

The Madison Square Co. gave entertainments Monday and Tuesday nights to fairly good houses.

Mayor Nelson and Hon. Moroni Price are the delegates to the National Irrigation Congress.

Mr. D. R. Roberts is here in the interest of his railroad.

Miss Jean Milligan is still visiting friends in Randolph and Evanston.

Mr. O. J. Gutke, of Ogden, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. A. H. Price.

The jolly musical numbers of "The Burgomaster" and the quaint wit of Peter Stuyvesant, the Governor of the Dutch, will be heard at the Opera House Thursday, Sept. 17th. Oscar L. Figman is playing the title role this year in the great musical comedy and has made a decided hit. There are sixty people in the organization and the production and the costumes are all new. Many of the famous original cast have been engaged for this big revival of the merry opera. The cast includes Ruth White, Oscar L. Figman, William Riley Hatch, Thomas Ricketts, Charles Sharp, R. J. Moye, George McKissock, Helen Dexter, Harriet Sheldon, Louise Brackett and Josephine Ditt.

WM. HASLAM LAID TO REST

At Wellville Sunday Afternoon.

Funeral Service Largely Attended.

The remains of the late Wm. Haslam were taken to his home town, Wellsville, last Sunday and during the morning lay in state at the residence of Mr. Alex B. Maughan, where they were viewed by hundreds of those who held him dear in life.

Services were held in the meeting house at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and the spacious hall was filled to overflowing with the many who had come to pay their last respects to their departed friend and relative. As the pall-bearers, Messrs. Peter M. Maughan, George C. Rigby, George Haslam, Henry Haslam, Daniel W. Jones, Wm. Haslam, Jr., and Alex B. Maughan, bore the remains from the Maughan home to the meeting house they were preceded by the Wellsville band, an organization which the deceased brought to a high state of perfection many years ago. The mournful notes of the funeral dirge aroused every heart, and not one in the throng but felt that there had gone from earth one who could be truly spared.

The services at the meeting house were very touching and a high testimonial to the worth of Mr. Haslam as a citizen and faithful Latter-day Saint. The gathering was presided over by Bishop Owen, and with him sat Pres. Parkinson, Messrs. Geo. O. Pitkin, I. C. Thoreson, Joseph Howell, Paul Cardon, Elias Davis, Andrew Anderson, C. C. Shaw and C. Dunn.

The choir, whose tutor Mr. Haslam had been for forty years, rendered "Nearer my God to Thee," followed by prayer from Mr. Samuel B. Milton. The choir then rendered "I Know that my Redeemer Lives."

Bishop Maughan, Hon. Joseph Howell, Robert Baxter Sr., Pres. Parkinson, Bishop Cardon, Andrew Anderson and Charles Bailey were the speakers at the service and all having known Mr. Haslam as a man of noble character, their words could be nothing but words of praise.

Mr. Maughan had known the deceased since 1880 and had never known him to shirk a duty, and could testify to his faithfulness to the cause. The deceased was a man of integrity and had never violated a contract.

Bishop Cardon of this city, offered words of consolation to the bereft ones, suggesting that the deceased's death came more in the nature of a relief, as his sufferings had been so intense.

Hon. Joseph Howell expressed himself as having been intimately associated with Mr. Haslam since his youth and had always found him to be a man at heart and in disposition. He felt that the world was better for the man having lived, and suggested that if his children emulate him, they would accomplish a great deal.

Andrew Anderson knew Mr. Haslam but to love him dearly and gave his sanction to all the good words that had been spoken. He asked the Lord to bless the grief stricken family.

Robert Baxter Sr., had come to this country with Mr. Haslam when but a youth, had stopped with him at Salt Lake and had come to Wellsville with him. He knew him to be an admirable man who had faithfully fulfilled positions of trust with honor.

Pres. Parkinson's words were a fitting testimonial to the deceased's worth as a man of God, and he also suggested that to associate with him it is necessary for all to conform their lives so as to be worthy of a similar reward. On behalf of the Stake presidency he witnessed that Brother Haslam's work had always been highly gratifying.

Charles Bailey had known the deceased since 1855 and had known nothing but good of him. He could talk for hours of him, he said, but could say nothing better than that he was honest, truthful God-fearing man.

The members and ex-members of the Wellsville band and choir, in token of their love and appreciation of Mr. Haslam, presented a set of resolutions which had been unanimously passed by them.

APRIL.

Isabel Irving in "The Crisis"—5.
Pollard's Lilliputian Opera Co.—12-13.

The Burgomaster which comes to morrow night is one of the biggest and best comic opera productions on the American stage today. Chicago is its home, and the company that played it there for six weeks will play it here.

The Royal Italian Band which comes on the 22nd has delighted the music lovers of this city before, and its perfections need no recommendation.

S. Miller Kent will come again, and 'tis said that "Reuben in New York" which comes on the 9th of October, is one of the most laughable productions that ever struck the globe. Ezra Kendall isn't in it, nor can "Mrs. Wigg's in the Cabbage Patch" touch it.

Ward & James will come on the 17th of October and appear in some Shakespearian role, presumably. Their reputation is world-wide. Just who Henry Miller is, is a matter of conjecture with us—at least he isn't the man who puts out the Henry F. Miller pianos handled by the Thatchers. Theatrical papers give him a tip-top reputation.

And who is it that hasn't heard of "King Dodo." It is the equal of the "Burgomaster" as an opera and has had a remarkable success since its appearance three years ago.

"A Trip to Chinatown" is one of Hoyts' best, and Hoyts' productions are always good. Instead of going over to San Francisco to see Chinatown, you can wait until December 15th and see it portrayed faithfully. If it's possible you want to sit "next" to C. D. W. Fuller on that night for that gentleman was through the "Celestial" city not so long ago and can give you pointers.

"Two Sisters" who come on the 28th of December are said to be away above the average, and Marie Wainwright who comes on the 29th is a celebrity whose brilliancy is certainly familiar to all who follow theatrical people in their careers.

Robert Mantell is strong, very strong, and "Way Down East" did an enormous business in Salt Lake last season,—almost broke the record. And who is it that doesn't love Kathryn Kidder? She was with the Warde & James combination until this season, and is now out with her own company. As Lady Macbeth she has no equal, and as Madame Sans Gene made a reputation that will remain though all other glories forsake her.

Then comes Chas. B. Hanford, whom the Thatchers tried to book last year but failed. They feel very fortunate in securing so talented an artist. Four nights later the "Bostonians" come in all their glory, and the house will be packed, as a matter of course.

The old reliable Murray and Mack will come on March 19th, and "The Crisis" comes on April 5th. This last will appeal to all readers of latter day fiction as the book from which it is dramatized has proved one of the most popular of the later novels. Isabel Irving will take the leading role which insures a satisfactory interpretation.

The entire list with dates is as follows:

Now that the season of dainty white and lawn parties is at an end, young ladies are worried over the fall gowns, and hostesses are casting about for new and novel methods of entertaining. Of course the popular euchre and whist parties will ever remain in favor—they are reliable standbys—and now that "Flinch" has been discovered for those who see destruction in the faces of queens and kings cards will in all probability be the ruling passion for in-door amusement. Whether or not ping-pong will be revived is a matter of conjecture. In certain sets last year it was all the rage, but few became sufficiently adept at handling the celluloid globules to take a great deal of interest in the game. Dancing will serve as of old, and with occasional theatre parties the season should not be altogether dull for the society folk.

In a literary way, the Woman's A. C. Club will undoubtedly have a most delightful time this winter. Last year the club did some excellent work and through the entire year the interest manifested was all that the most enthusiastic could have desired. This club is one of the really intellectual organizations of the city and its influence is undoubtedly for good. Its fame spread with such rapidity and work was valued so highly that the allotted number of members was secured before the year was half over and the women must now revise a certain section of their constitution or turn away a number of excellent women who desire admission to the club.

Those who last year were so delighted with a certain "doctor's" expertness at whist, as well as his undoubted artistic capacity as a pianist will no doubt be pleased to learn that he will probably come to Logan again within a short time.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

At the A. C. of U. a Great Thing.

But is to be Improved by Prof. Bexell.

Utah is justly proud of her educational institutions. In establishing higher institutions of learning,—she has been mindful of but one great idea: The benefit of the people, the improvement of boys and girls of all classes, rich and poor alike. The beehive state does not discourage classical learning. She is happy over every son and daughter who can afford the time and money to obtain a finished classical education. But in providing education for the masses, the state has realized that cooking and sewing are far more useful in the home than Higher Mathematics, and that a thorough Business Training goes farther toward making a living than Latin and Greek. Hence, in looking over the courses of any of the State institutions, one will find the useful subjects generally predominant.

This statement is preeminently true of the State Agricultural College of Utah. What it has accomplished since its foundation in 1888 is really marvelous. It is today a public institution of which every taxpayer may be justly proud. It has already attracted no small attention among the great Eastern institutions of learning. Eleven states were represented in the enrollment last year. Students from afar, East and West, are already contemplating taking up studies at the Agricultural College, particularly in Mining and Irrigation Engineering. As now organized, the college consists of five schools; the school of Agriculture, the school of Domestic Science and Arts, the school of Engineering and Mechanic Arts, the school of General Science, and the school of Commerce.

THE SCHOOL OF COMMERCE.

Modern business methods have made business training an absolute necessity to everyone who hopes to succeed in the business world. Slowly but steadily the business courses have forced themselves into the High School, the College, and into the foremost Universities of the world, so that today the student at Columbia, Ann Arbor, and the University of Chicago may earn his Bachelor's degree, and even his Doctor's degree, with the major part of his work in subjects relating to commerce. Being a comparatively new venture as a higher course, it is not surprising that a great diversity of opinion exists as to what are the most valuable subjects in the commercial course.

UNIQUE COURSES.

The commercial courses of the Agricultural College are built upon a unique plan giving the greatest possible freedom of selection when the student has reached his Junior year. He has the choice of the following courses: Production and Manufacture, Commerce and Transportation, Banking and Finance, Accounting and Auditing. In all these courses great stress is laid on Economics and Political Science, these sciences being to the business man what mathematics are to the engineer.

EQUIPMENT.

It is safe to say that no school in the West can offer equipment superior to that of the Agricultural College. Four large, beautiful lecture rooms, besides the accounting Room and offices, are occupied by the Department of Commerce. Each room is equipped with every modern convenience for the work to be conducted in it. The rooms for stenography and typewriting are furnished with twenty-four typewriters, each provided with stand and copy holder. They are also furnished with the latest filing cabinets copying presses, etc. Both the Gregg and the Graham systems of shorthand are taught.

NEW FIXTURES FOR ACCOUNTING ROOM.

Former students will be pleased to learn that the contract for new office fixtures in the main accounting room has recently been awarded to the
